

Handleman Asphyxiated While in Coma, Doctors Say; Brown Case Opens

District Attorney Murray in Opening Case Declares He Will Tie Brown to Murder of Junk-man and Wife.

BADLY BURNED

Testimony Reveals Body Found so Badly Burned Identification Will Be Difficult.

Isidore Handleman of Ellenville, aged junk-man who met his death on April 8, last, together with his wife apparently died from the effects of asphyxiation from burning while in a coma. That was the testimony of two physicians who made a post-mortem examination of the bodies.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray opened the case shortly after the opening of court this morning and told the jury that The People would show that Mr. Handleman met his death in the early hours of April 8 at his Pine street home after being beaten and assaulted with a piece of piston from an automobile and that the body was then burned. He charged that Charles James Brown, negro truckman of the village, would be shown to be the man who committed the crime and he asked the jury, at the conclusion of the case to bring in a verdict of murder, first degree, a verdict which would result in the infliction of the death penalty.

While both Mr. and Mrs. Handleman died at the same time and apparently from the same means, only the charge against Brown for the murder of Mr. Handleman is being tried at this time.

Mr. Murray also told the jury that it would be shown by evidence that not only was Handleman assaulted, burned and left to die in the house which was set afire, but that the crime of robbery was also committed.

Seeks to Prove

In the proof to be offered by prosecution, Mr. Murray said it would be shown that Mr. and Mrs. Handleman, aged couple were at home on the early morning of April 8, 1937. That they were alone in the house and asleep. That during the early morning hours, some time between 12:30 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the morning the defendant, Brown, violated the sanctity of the home and killed the aged couple.

Mr. Murray said evidence would be offered to show that Brown took money from the home and that some time probably between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock that morning he assaulted the people with a piston gear, knocking Mr. Handleman to the floor and then set fire to the premises and left the bodies to be partially cremated.

In the case he said there would appear probably a question of the identity of the body found. The body was very badly burned he said but he told the jurors that he believed there would be proof sufficient to show that the one body was that of Mr. Handleman and people who knew him in his lifetime would be able to establish that identity. He told the jurors that during the trial reference would be made to the death of Mrs. Handleman, but cautioned the jurors that this was incidental to the present trial and the only charge which was being presented was the killing of Mr. Handleman.

About 2:50 o'clock that morning he said a garage was afire about 1,000 feet from the Handleman home and a truck was destroyed. The fire department had just returned home when a second call was sent in from the same locality and many of the firemen believed it was the garage fire breaking out anew. However, it was at the Handleman home. When the firemen arrived they found the flames shooting out of the upstairs window of the home and from the bedroom of the house in which later two bodies were found. This fire he said was in the bedroom occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Handleman.

"We will show the movements of Brown on the late evening of April 7 and the early morning of April 8 and we will account for the whereabouts of Brown that day," said Mr. Murray.

He said it would be shown that some time between 1 and probably 2 o'clock or slightly later a fire was set in the bedroom of the Handleman home and that this fire was confined to the bedroom which was lined with celotex, a substance which confined the fire to the room for a time and caused an intense heat to accumulate in the room.

"We will show that this plan is (Continued on Page Eight)

The local W.P.A. is providing work on street, sewer and water projects in the city to 628 men, while in the county approximately 500 men are being given employment on W.P.A. work projects, making a total of 1,128 on the W.P.A. rolls.

At the present time West Chester street is being rebuilt. The street has been rebuilt from Broadway to the foot of the hill, and now work is being carried on up the hill.

END OF THE TAIL—FOR PICKETS

Special police of Monroe, Mich., fearing an advance of riot-bent pickets, strung steel cables across the highway approach to the Newton Steel Company plant. Pickets, however, failed to show up and the elaborate precautions were unnecessary.

Decision Reserved As Charges Against DeCicco Are Heard

Albany, June 15 (Special) — Decision was reserved Monday afternoon by Deputy Education Commissioner Ernest E. Cole, on the appeal of Mrs. Mary Olivetti for removal of Michael DeCicco as trustee of common school district 7, in the town of Ulster, Ulster county.

At a public hearing in the Regents Room, State Education Building, before Commissioner Cole, William Kaercher, of Kingston, counsel for Mrs. Olivetti, charged Trustee DeCicco with wilfully neglecting to call a special meeting of the district for the purpose of electing a successor to former Trustee Maurice O'Bryan, and with being financially interested in contracts made by the school district. It was also charged that DeCicco received $15 as reimbursement for telephone calls, stamps and postage, for which no proper voucher was filed with the district clerk.

In answer to these charges, Andrew J. Cook, of Kingston, attorney for DeCicco, denied any "wilful" intention to do anything wrongful on the part of the trustee, and declared he had an affidavit from the district clerk, showing that a proper voucher had been filed for the $15 reimbursement.

Interest in contracts made by the district was evidenced on two occasions by Trustee DeCicco, Kaercher asserted at the hearing. It was pointed out that DeCicco hauled coal to his truck from Brink Bros., coal dealers of Lake Katrine, to the schoolhouse, for which he received $10, at the rate of 50 cents a ton, for 20 tons. Commissioner Cole interrupted the proceedings at this point to ask Kaercher if he thought 50 cents a ton was too high a charge for hauling the coal.

"No," Kaercher answered. "We don't claim that."

"Did they (the district) pay an unreasonable price for the coal?" asked the commissioner.

"We believe they did," Kaercher replied, "but we don't say anything about that in our papers."

Proof Necessary.

Commissioner Cole then remarked that in order to prove violation of the law, it would have to be proved that the trustee was interested in the raising of the price of the coal to the district. Unless the prices paid were "grossly unreasonable," the commissioner said, it could not be established that DeCicco benefited greatly by the contracts.

Another contract, Kaercher continued, was one for $50 with James Smith, son of the janitor of the school, for sand, gravel, and grading the school grounds. Again DeCicco's truck was used and the $50, trustee received $34 out of the $50, for the use of his truck and for five days' work in assisting Smith, it was alleged.

"Was there any need for the gravel?" Kaercher replied.

"Yes," Kaercher replied.

"Was the price reasonable?" the commissioner inquired?

It was admitted by Kaercher that it was.

No witnesses were called by Commissioner Cole to testify at the hearing, although Trustee DeCicco, Mrs. DeCicco and District Superintendent of Schools Clarence A. Johnson were present.

At the conclusion of the hearing, it was indicated by Commissioner Cole that a decision would be rendered soon.

Rival Factions Battle

Ambridge, Pa., June 15 (AP)—Rival factions representing the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor battled today at the main gates of the National Electric Products Company.

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, June 15 (AP)—Grim Basque militiamen hurriedly threw up street barricades today for a last stand defense against insurgents fighting their way into Bilbao. Insurgent rifle bullets fell in the streets.

Houses near the outskirts of the ancient Basque capital were turned into machine-gun and rifle nests. Expert snipers picked advantageous spots from which to harry the invaders.

While the "last stand" preparations were being rushed, the rifle-bullets from the outskirts, plinging into the cobblestone streets, brought home to defenders how close modern fight has drawn to a city which has been inviolable for centuries.

Border advisers said the defenders were facing the onslaught calmly. During the night, government artillery inside the city started a heavy bombardment of insurgent positions. While the shelling was at its height, long lines of automobiles sped out of Bilbao and along the Euzkay coast carrying refugees toward Santander.

Many women, old men and wounded fled from the city which they had refused to leave when insurgents first started their drive against Basque allies of the Spanish republic early in April. Thousands of children have been evacuated by sea.

An insurgent communiqué, which estimated Basque casualties during the last four days as about 6,000, said the attackers were descending to the capital along a line that stretched from Galdacano to the sea on the west side of Bilbao.

Their aim was to surround the city completely before launching a final drive into the streets. By extending their lines across the Nervion near Galdacano, south of Bilbao, insurgents could halt communication to government Santander, to the east, and command the east side of Bilbao as well as the west.

Deep Wedge Driven

With insurgents at the edge of Bilbao, June 15 (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's northern insurgent army drove a deep wedge today between the broken Basque "iron ring" defense and the Nervion river in their drive on Bilbao.

The insurgents forged their own belt of iron about the city, fanning out inside the mountain defenses reached three days ago, and mopping up a wide expanse of mountainous and valley territory. More than 2,000 prisoners were captured yesterday alone.

The capture of Munguia, important highway junction to the northeast of Bilbao, removed pressure from the sweeping insurgent advance.

Dozens of artillery batteries were moving out of their mountain positions and long truck trains were speeding troops to the jump-off points for the next stage of the carefully planned campaign to wrest Bilbao's munitions, steel and coal plants from the government.

New York, June 15 (AP)—Roberta Jones, 17 year old dancer and protégée of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, considered offers from three movie companies and one theatrical producer today—and therein lay a Cinderella story.

A year ago, she was shy, demure Roberta Jones, of St. Petersburg, Fla., distinguished only by her pleasing voice and her love of dancing.

Her widowed mother and her sister, an art student, encouraged her to practice ballet dancing which she had learned at the neighborhood playhouse.

Opinion Is Alleged Tax Dodgers Be Made Public

Washington, June 15 (AP)—A policy of disclosing names of alleged tax dodgers received the approval today of two leaders of the congressional tax inquiry.

"Why not let the country know?" asked Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) of the Senate finance committee.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the House ways and means committee expressed agreement. Both had just been to the White House to confer with President Roosevelt.

The entire committee of six senators and six representatives, which expects to begin testimony tomorrow, must vote on making public information about individual income tax returns.

Secretary Morgenthau probably will be the first witness. Informed persons predicted the inquiry will center on the returns of millionaires and near-millionaires, especially those on a secret treasury list of alleged tax dodgers.

Harrison said that some of those named may want to testify, and the committee "certainly will hear them."

"There probably will be some who will not want to appear," he added.

New Fireworks Law Adopted Last Year Now in Effect Here

With the Fourth of July but a few weeks distant those who handle and sell fireworks should study the new fireworks ordinance that was adopted in August of 1936, and which is now in effect in the city. Officials said today. Under the provisions of the ordinance no fireworks may be offered for sale before the 30th day of June preceding the fourth day of July of each year.

Merchants who desire to handle and sell fireworks at retail are required to make an application for a permit to store or sell fireworks not later than June 1. Such application may be obtained of the city clerk. The application when filled out by the applicant is filed with the mayor who shall file the application with the fire chief who makes an investigation of the premises on which the fireworks are to be stored or sold.

If the report is satisfactory the mayor may issue the permit upon the payment of a fee of $2.

The ordinance also prohibits the sale or use of any cannon crackers, bombs, sky rockets, fire balloons, mines, detonating or torpedo canes, blank cartridges, blank cartridge pistols, firecrackers of the size of more than one inch and a half in length and one-fourth inch in diameter.

Merchants desiring to sell fireworks at retail for the Fourth of July should make application for permits at once.

Sir James Barrie Better

London, June 15 (AP)—Physicians attending Sir James M. Barrie, III with bronchial pneumonia, announced his condition still was serious but somewhat improved today.

Cinderella Story—17 Year Old Dancer Guest Of Mrs. Roosevelt at White House Two Weeks

Then she met Earl Miller, a handsome former bodyguard of President Roosevelt, now director of personnel in the state department of correction. They fell in love, and became engaged.

One night last summer, Miller took her to a party at Hyde Park, while the President and Mrs. Roosevelt were there. Roberta danced, and the Roosevelts were enchanted.

Roberta remained for several weeks at Hyde Park, at Mrs. Roosevelt's invitation.

Two weeks ago, she was invited to Washington to dance at a newspapermen's White House party. Then came a two weeks' engagement at a Washington Hotel; and throughout that time she stayed at the White House, again guest of the Roosevelts.

Roberta determined not to capitalize on the first lady's name, said Mrs. Roosevelt "takes an interest in everybody."

"I don't know," the little dancer said, "why she was so nice to me. She is so warm-hearted and natural that I don't think you realize what a great woman she is until you stop and think about it."

She said Mrs. Roosevelt taught her to knit, and once came to the hotel where she was dancing, watched her and "even offered some suggestions about my routine."

Bloodshed Anew as Siege of Steel Involving 80,000 Idle Workers Gathers Momentum

Garbage Men Relate Tale to Provide New Clue in Kidnaping

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 15 (AP)—Two garbage collectors told federal agents today that last Wednesday, the day Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, society matron, vanished, they were not allowed to enter the Parsons' Long Island home when they called. It was the first time such a thing had happened in four years, they said.

The collectors, Arthur Chadwick, 31, and his negro helper, George Winfield, told their story to Earl Connelley, Inspector of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and Assistant District Attorney Lindsay Henry of Suffolk county.

It was their custom to enter the house, they said, descend to the basement and collect the garbage, but that on Wednesday they were met by Mrs. Anna Kupryanova, Russian housekeeper and companion to Mrs. Parsons, who pointed to a large package tied with cord, and told them:

"That's all."

Car In Garage

They also told Connelley the Parsons' automobile, which Mrs. Kupryanova had said stood outside the house all day, was in the garage when they called.

"This story may be extremely important," Assistant District Attorney Henry said. "A number of very suspicious aspects of this case have developed, but I cannot discuss them now."

Connelley said the men's story was getting the "most careful consideration," and another police official, who asked that his name be withheld, said "this may prove to be the first break in this case."

Mrs. Parsons vanished shortly before noon and a note, demanding $25,000, was found tucked in the front of the Parsons' car hours later at the trim white farm house where Mrs. Parsons and her husband, William H. Parsons, Yale graduate and retired New York business man, lived quietly raising chickens and pigeons.

Search Renewed

A search of the wooded area on and around the Parsons 22-acre estate, was renewed today. Overnight a fresh contingent of federal agents arrived, bringing to about 50 the number seeking to break the case.

Two big trucks rolled into town this morning, carrying 40 Civilian Conservation Corps men and eight forest rangers of the State Conservation Department.

State Troopers, federal men, local police and the others, about 150 in all, many of them suffering from scratches and poison ivy, tackled a fresh segment below the Parsons house, moving slowly across cultivated fields, through thick woods, and more laboriously through a tangle of scrub oaks, laurel, wintergreen and briars.

The federal agents, who suffered from thirst yesterday, carried cans of tomato juice and water bottles. As the search went on Connelley reiterated that he believed prospects for Mrs. Parsons' safe return were waning.

5 City College Fires

New York, June 15 (AP)—Discovery of five fires in quick succession in the administration building of City College yesterday started police and fire officials on a hunt for an incendiary. All in cabinets containing records, the blazes were found in different rooms at intervals between 4 and 8:30 p. m. Damage was small. A passkey had been used to enter various rooms of the five-story structure.

Mrs. Zioncheck in Movies

San Francisco, June 15 (AP)—Mrs. Ruby Nix Zioncheck, young widow of the late Congressman Marion A. Zioncheck of Seattle, was on her way to Hollywood today, supposedly to accept a film studio contract. Congressman Zioncheck killed himself last year by leaping from his office window in a Seattle building.

Chester Calls Low Wages Economic Suicide in a Talk at Boston Meeting

Boston, June 15 (AP)—Colby M. Chester, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, told the Boston Chamber of Commerce today that "modern, enlightened" business management believes "it is economic suicide to advocate the paying of unfairly low wages."

Chester, chairman of the General Foods Corporation, asserted in a prepared address, that "enlightened management, and by that I mean honest management, wants and desires to function harmoniously with labor; but it takes two to shake hands, and the sooner that is realized the sooner will the public's patience be restored. As a matter of fact, I believe that the majority of employees are realizing it as well as the majority of employers."

"The typical worker is a family man, a sound citizen, proud of his position in society and of the dignity and usefulness of his work. The typical worker values his good name in the community, and it is therefore logical to assume that pressure from within, from the sober element among the workers themselves, will insist that no labor organization is qualified to represent them unless it unhesitatingly assumes and lives up to its responsibilities."

Kingston Hosts to Knights Templar For 1938 Conclave

Victory perched upon the banners of the Knights of Roundout Commandery, 52, K. T., as they returned home about 10:30 o'clock Monday night after participating in the annual grand conclave of the order, held at Gloversville.

The triumphant knights announced that, after a hard battle, they had won out over their strongest competitor, Damascus Commandery, of Brooklyn, and had been successful in having Kingston designated as the meeting place for the grand conclave in 1938.

The significance of this announcement may be gathered from the statement made by members of Roundout Commandery that there were some 4,000 uniformed Knights in line of parade, with 18 bands, at Gloversville Monday.

First Time

This will be the first time that the grand conclave has been held in Kingston. It is stated, although it had been held in Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and other nearby cities.

The question of entertaining such a large body of men, along with other visitors, has been a problem, but it is understood that arrangements have been made to augment the accommodations which Kingston hotels are able to offer and that there will be plenty of room when the knights gather here next year.

The Kingston Knights, accompanied by about 20 ladies, made the trip to Gloversville and return in Short Line busses. Among those who attended the grand conclave were the following officers, past commanders and Sir Knights of Roundout Commandery:

George D. Burnett, commander; the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, generalissimo; Edward S. Morris, captain general; Charles Czerwinski, senior warden; Donald Leith, junior warden; William McCullough, Edwin Snow, Ivar Jungquist, Harry Pierce, W. Frank Davis, past commanders; Sir Knights W. A. Van Deever, Charles Ewell, John L. Tanner, Frederick Campbell, George Schryver, Frank L. Brown, Frederick C. Lang, Dr. R. P. Baylor, Dr. Manfred Broberg, Edward Noles, Charles Abbott of Kingston; Sir Knights Post, Lampmann, Beach and Park of Catskill, and Frank Pratt of Cobleskill, all members of Roundout Commandery.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,668,339,142.41; expenditures, $7,077,409,281.62, (including $2,698,553,804.35 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $2,409,070,139.21; gross debt, $38,282,321,880.88, an increase of $68,191.98 over the previous day. Gold assets, $12,172,439,843.48, including $941,094,731.93 of inactive gold.

Solidarity Proposed

London, June 15 (AP)—Empire statesmen testified to the solidarity of the British commonwealth today at the final plenary session of the imperial conference. They declared there was no divergence between London and the dominions on any fundamental principles either in foreign policy or for defense.

Seven States in Great Lakes Region Feels Threat of Fresh Strife in New C.I.O. Plans in Auto Manufacturing Field

GENERAL MOTORS

Auto Workers' Union Confers on Plans for New Agreement with Auto Manufacturers.

Johnstown, Pa., June 15 (AP)—The C. I. O. siege of steel, involving 80,000 strike-bitten men in seven states of the Great Lakes region, gathered momentum today with renewed skull-cracking bloodshed and a threat of fresh strife in the Detroit automobile field.

Union violence broke out at Ambridge, Pa., as 500 C. I. O. pickets assaulted 50 members of the rival A. F. of L. seeking to return to work at the National Electric Products Company.

A move for peace went forward at Columbus, O., where Governor Martin L. Davey sought to bring steel and C. I. O. leaders together in agreement. But the pre-conference atmosphere was gloomy.

At Ambridge, nearly a score of A. F. of L. men were beaten with clubs as they marched towards the company gates, chanting:

"We're going to work!"

Police fired tear-gas shells, but the A. F. of L. back-to-work movement failed. The men did not get into the plant.

Agreement Ends August 1

In Detroit, Homer Martin, head of the United Automobile Workers of America, conferred with representatives of 17 locals throughout the country. Speculation immediately arose concerning new demands the U. A. W. A. will present to General Motors Corporation on expiration of a "truce" agreement on August 1.

The demands under consideration reportedly include:

A blanket wage increase of 10 cents an hour, which would add $50,000,000 to the corporation's annual payroll; a 7-hour day and 3-day week; and sole collective bargaining rights for the U. A. W. in all General Motors plants.

At Warren, Ohio, steel moved from the Republic Steel plant for the first time in three weeks. Under the guard of railroad police, 35 carloads of raw materials were shunted into the mill, and 35 carloads of steel went out.

No effort was made at the picket-line to restrain the train movements, but strikers in swift retaliation dynamited 80 feet of track of the Pennsylvania Railroad on the Ashtabula-Miles branch after the removal of the cars. The Pennsylvania said the track was dynamited.

The cars were removed about 4:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) and the track blown up an hour later.

The Pennsylvania, together with the Erie and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads are seeking in federal court at Cleveland to restrain strike pickets from interfering with the operation of their trains.

Meanwhile, here in historic Conemaugh Valley—scene of the great flood of 1889—hate and fear boiled to the top as hard-fisted steel workers and strikers battled over the right to return to work.

From Butterfield Falls, at the east end of the valley, down seven and one-half miles to the point where the flood boiled against a huge stone bridge, citizens gathered today in sullen groups.

One group cheered the strikers and pickets, urging them on.

Another hurled denunciations at them, holding them responsible for the terrorism which swept the 7-mile Cambria plant early last night.

Neutral residents of Johnstown organized a group of "vigilantes" to support Mayor Daniel J. Shields. The mayor telephoned Gov. George Earl, that unless he took the situation in hand at once, he would appeal to the American Legion to protect the city.

Thousands watched the disorders last night, while against the night sky the red glare of the mills and showers of yellowish stars told them that steel was still being made.

Case Load of E.R.B. Drops to 228 in City During This Month

The number of families receiving home relief in Kingston has dropped to a case load of 228, according to figures filed by the E. R. B. with Mayor C. J. Heiselman. This is the lowest number of cases carried on home relief rolls in some years.

During the summer months there is always a drop in the caseload due to the fact that many on relief are able to obtain work during the warm months.

MONROE MAYOR VISITS GUARDS AT STEEL MILL

Mayor Daniel Kanaga (center) of Monroe, Mich., visits special guards at the Newton steel mill, a short distance from the scene of a union protest meeting.

PICKETS FIGHTING NON-STRIKERS IN JOHNSTOWN

Pickets are shown fighting non-strikers at the Franklin plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Johnstown, Pa. Five were injured before police dispersed the fighters.

Bloodshed Anew In Siege of Steel

Fought and blood was shed today as C I O a war with Steel whipped into new and bitter violence. Seven persons were hurt, two critically. There was shooting, the crack of hot clubs on human heads and the tossing of iron gas bombs here at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation sprawling Cambria works. At Columbus, O., the struggle swung in another direction, toward peace, and bloodless peace. It was the Gov. Martin L. Davey conference, bringing together employer and union representatives in a new effort to end their differences. The conference at Columbus was not hopeful. The ever-present bargaining clause which the union demands and upon which its dispute with industry is largely based, remained a high hurdle. At Youngstown, O., and Buffalo,

N. Y., there were "back-to-work" movements supported by non union workers made idle by C I O strikes, and at Monroe, Mich., which less than a week ago appeared to be a fuse point for trouble, the authorities gave consent to "peaceful picketing."

But here in Johnstown was bloodshed. The trouble burst out shortly after midnight when shifts change. It was at the little used Point Stadium gate of the Cambria works. Police said a crowd of men and boys set upon them as the gate was being opened to permit the entry of an automobile carrying two men.

Picket Shot
The officers retaliated with tear gas bombs. Pistol fire erupted. Tony Mangas, a picket, was struck by bullets and critically wounded. Ambulances that raced to the scene came upon Phillip A. Frye, a Bethlehem worker, lying seriously hurt in a street not far away. His skull was fractured.

Almost simultaneous with the outbreak, Mayor Daniel J. Shields announced organization of a citizens committee to maintain order. The midnight fight at the Point Stadium gate was the night's second outbreak. The earlier disorder was between state police, in full riot equipment, and pickets at the entrance to the Franklin mill of the Cambria plant.

A girl, an eight-year-old boy and three other persons were hurt in that clash, fought in a driving rainstorm. A crowd of several hundred persons had surged about the gate. When a worker, alone, emerged from the plant and started to board a streetcar, the crowd swept down on him. He was pulled from the car and clubbed. Stones and sticks were thrown at the streetcar by the shouting crowd.

The police ran up, swinging their riot sticks. Four pickets were arrested on charges of assault and battery, disorderly conduct and inciting to riot.

General Situation

Johnstown, Pa.—Seven persons injured, two critically, as pickets and police clash at gates of Bethlehem Steel Corp. plant; Gov. Earle instructs state police chief to "take control of the entire city, if local authorities cannot maintain order."
Columbus, O.—Union and employer representatives meet with Gov. Davey, seeking end to Ohio steel strike involving 45,000 men.

Pittsburgh.—Union leaders declined comment on reports they are discussing plans to extend strike to other Bethlehem plants.

Ice Cream Originated in Italy
Ice cream, generally thought to be an American invention, originated in Italy in 1800. It spread to France and England, then crossed to the American colonies. Even the wide diversity of ices and ice creams is neither modern nor American, for when the process of freezing first was discovered it was used for almost every dessert and beverage.

First Use of Candy Machines
About 1825 foreign candy manufacturers began to use some machinery in their factories, but the actual introduction of machinery in candy-making dates from 1840. The first machine of this character to be brought to the United States was imported by Sebastian Chauveau of Philadelphia in 1845. In 1848 Oliver R. Chase invented a machine for the making of lozenges.

India, slowly being modernized, has adopted a six-year program of road development. New water supply systems are being installed in many parts of the country.

Trouble's Mouthpiece
John McMillan will ring the Monroe, Mich., court house bell to call out vigilantes if trouble breaks at the Newton Steel plant. Mayor Daniel A. Kanaga has 500 special peace officers and as many more Legionnaires on call.

Theatre Group Met Monday Evening, Committee Named

A hand picked steering committee, representing the little theatre movement in this locality, met at the home of Dr. Charles E. Parsons last evening to carry on where the larger open meeting of Thursday left off, following its first burst of enthusiastic approval. The meeting last night was composed of Woodstock, Kingston and New York city people.

Some concrete plan of procedure was discussed at length by the committee in attendance at the meeting and a temporary, setup was devised by Roger Loughran, Arthur Ewig and N. Jansen Fowler to clarify the aims and objects of the group.

A temporary executive committee was named and this committee included Towar Boggs, Ann Herzog Olson, Roger Loughran, Rudolph Frederic-Floie, Charles E. Gradwell, Arthur B. Ewig and Mrs. Everett Fessenden. Mrs. Olson was chosen secretary of the group and Mr. Ewig was named treasurer.

Catacombs Under Palaces
There are nearly eleven miles of passages and grottoes underneath Fortress hill, which rises like an island of antiquity among the more modern buildings of Budapest, the pleasure loving capital of the Hungarians. The hill is built up with the older palaces and newer mansions of the Magyar aristocracy, who didn't know until a generation ago that their homes were undermined by the deepest of man made tunnels. Some of the passages extend out beneath the bed of the Danube. The catacombs date back to the days when the fort of Buda was held by the Turks, marking the farthest fortified advance of the forces of Islam into Christendom.

Author of First Geographies
Jedidiah Morse, author of the first American school books on geography, was born in 1761. He was educated at Woodstock Academy and at Yale College, where he was graduated in 1783. After teaching for a few years, he entered the Congregational ministry. His most important work was the authorship of school books which included "Geography Made Easy" (1787), "Elements of Geography" (1797), and "Universal Geography" (1814). He died in 1826.

Pays $17.50 for One Black Bass

Robert Gilroy of Hudson was engaged in angling near the dividing weir at the Ashokan Reservoir Sunday, when he was apprehended by Game Protector Lewis H. Wood on a charge of having in his possession a black bass. The bass had been taken some time before the officer who had been watching Gilroy for some time, apprehended him.

Gilroy was taken before Justice Lester S. Davis, of West Shokan, where he paid a judgment of $17.50. It was stated at the Conservation office at 662 Broadway this morning that protectors from this section have been continually patrolling the Ashokan Reservoir, both day and night, for some time past. A large number of cars have been searched for black bass and there have been several arrests and fines paid.

Copperhead Shot At Devil's Lake

Monday evening about 7:30 o'clock while Van Plass and Walter Scharp, both of 44 Ravine street, this city, were hunting green frogs at Devil's Lake, both had a narrow escape from being bitten by a copperhead snake.

According to Scharp, a Freeman composing room employe, the two were hunting in the swamp at the Kingston end of the lake. Plass noticed the snake curled between his legs, ready to strike. He called to Scharp to pass him the gun, but the snake struck first, scarring with his fangs the heel of Plass's rubber hunting boot. Scharp shot off the serpent's head.

This experience is warning enough to parents of small boys who haunt the lake in the summer, since the locale is the sort where copperheads breed.

Mrs. Sickler Heads Ulster Rebekah

Mrs. Charles Sickler, of Port Ewen, was installed as district deputy president of Ulster Rebekah District No. 2 on Wednesday night, June 9, at impressive ceremonies held in the Lucretia Lodge rooms at Ulster Park. Mrs. Wesley Terwilliger, of Marlborough, retiring district deputy, was the installing officer.

Members of Mrs. Sickler's staff include the following: Marshal, Mrs. Lillian Wesley, of Port Ewen; musician, Mrs. J. W. Blakely, of Highland; outside guardian, Mrs. Mabel Bode, of Kingston; inside guardian, Mrs. Mary Halliday, of Port Ewen; chaplain, Mrs. Etta Corbett, of Kingston; treasurer, Mrs. Edna Cole, of Kingston; secretary, Miss Grace Berryann, of Kingston; warden, Miss Olive Armstrong, of New Paltz.

Dignitaries present at the installation included Mrs. Anna Van Aken, of Kingston, past assembly president; Miss Florence Gippert, of Saugerties, and Mrs. Blakely, of Highland, past assembly musicians; Mrs. Mary Reis, of Kingston, DDP of Ulster No. 1, and Frank Miller, of Modena, district deputy grand patriarch. Each of these gave a brief talk and wished the new deputy all success during her term.

Immediately after this honors were paid to the six attending past district deputy presidents of Ulster No. 2. They were escorted to the altar where honors were paid to them by the retiring deputy, Mrs. Terwilliger. After this they were presented with pink and white peonies by Miss Ruth Norton, of the Marlborough group. Those receiving honors were: Mrs. J. W. Blakely, Mrs. Max Gruner and Mrs. Ralph Dirk, of Highland; Mrs. Edna Cole and Mrs. Mabel Bode, of Kingston, and Mrs. Martin Tompkins, of Marlborough.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting and a social hour enjoyed.

Mountain Lion Is Large

The American mountain lion is one of the largest predatory animals in the United States, sometimes weighing more than 200 pounds. It is recognized by game conservationists as the greatest natural enemy of deer, and stockmen learn to their sorrow that when game is scarce, the mountain lion attacks young domestic stock, particularly colts, lambs and kids and even full-grown horses and cattle.

Rumors at the capital indicate that Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, may enter one of the Texas statewide races next summer. The reports generally link him with the campaign for lieutenant governor.

The Department of Agriculture plans to study the possibilities of flood control on more than 280 watersheds throughout the country, as listed in the Omnibus Flood Control Act of 1936. Specialists will first make a preliminary study of each watershed to make sure that benefits from flood-control measures would exceed estimated costs. If so, the Department will survey the watershed in detail and report its findings to Congress as a guide in authorizing control work.

SAFETY IN A CANOE

Canoeing looks so simple and easy when done by experts, but it's a dangerous sport for the fellow who doesn't understand it. And there are many such fellows nowadays. Consider the problem of an overturned canoe. It is simple enough when you know what to do, but to many a cited novice it means tragedy. With the season beginning again, and with canoes more popular than ever, a tip may be useful.

Newspapers told the other day of two young men who paddled out half a mile into a rough lake, then got tipped over by a wave hitting the canoe broadside while they were changing seats. They got back home by the unusual procedure of hanging onto opposites of the water-filled craft, and slowly paddling to shore with all their clothes on, including their hats. They were lucky.

But in the first place, they shouldn't change seats in a canoe without crouching low. In the second place, they shouldn't let a wave hit them broadside while doing it. And in the third place, they should learn how to climb back into a canoe when spilled out. It's a neat trick. First you empty nearly all the water out of the canoe by slowing pressing down one side. Then you climb in over the end. That is done by hanging onto the tip of the bow or stern, letting yourself low down in the water, then suddenly pulling hard with your arms and kicking with your legs—and up and over you go, falling in head first. It must be done quickly. It is easier when there is somebody to hold the other end down. Once in, you can bail out the rest of the water. And with what? Oh, that's your problem.

UNSOLVED UNEMPLOYMENT.

The National Industrial Conference Board estimates 6,981,000 unemployed in the United States in April. This is the lowest total for any month since the summer of 1931. It shows an unemployment decrease since January of 1,400,000. The decline in March and April is attributed to employment of additional workers in agriculture, manufacturing, the service industries and the construction trades.

The total is only an estimate. No one knows exactly how many unemployed there are in the nation. There is as yet no satisfactory definition of unemployment. Estimates may include not only the usual family breadwinners, but some who want jobs but are not compelled by necessity to earn their own living. On the other hand, they may leave out many who need work for self-support and self-respect but who are on private charity instead of public relief and whose plight is therefore not known.

It is reassuring to see the unemployment estimates dropping, and with them relief needs. It would be more reassuring to know that we had really solved our unemployment and relief problems to the extent of having exact and full information concerning them—the number of people involved, the reasons for continued unemployment—and a sound, long-range plan for handling such situations.

STUDENT EXCHANGE.

At the closing session of Rotary International at Nice, France, it was announced that 2,000 French and German boys and girls would be exchanged across that border, which, twenty odd years ago, was known as "the western front." During their vacations these youngsters will visit in each other's countries, the Germans living in French homes, the French children in German homes. The purpose is the promotion of "freundschaft, amitie, friendship," as a trilingual speaker put it.

Maurice Duperrey of Paris, now president, explains the organization's belief that the best way to forward Rotary's peace work is to increase "cultural, artistic and commercial exchanges between France and Germany." Through friendship among the children of those two historic enemies may be developed mutual understanding and reconciliation. Americans know that children of different social levels, different races and different lands are pretty much alike and get along together surprisingly well if they are not directed too much by their elders. If friendship among children were the whole solution to international rivalries and war, we could have peace now. Unfortunately there is more to it than that. Perhaps the Rotarians should carry out an exchange of rulers, military leaders, diplomats and statesmen.

JUSTICE FOR HUSBANDS

A bill providing alimony for dependent husbands, at first blush, may not arouse much enthusiasm from either sex, but a measure recently passed by the Florida House of Representatives has its points. As explained by its sponsor:

It is designed to curb the change of venue of a woman's affections after she has acquired all the property and wants to quit her husband.

It provides that the wealthy wife brings suit against him for divorce after he has given her the title to all his property.

That sounds fair enough.

GOUTTIE SYMPTOMS

A young man of 25 consulted a physician regarding his inability to concentrate, his lack of appetite, and his disturbed sleep. As his heart was beating about 100 to the minute and the temperature was normal, the physician suspected early thyroid trouble and had him undergo a metabolism test. Sure enough, the test showed that the body processes were working at the rate of 117 instead of 100, and as 115 is considered the outside limit to be called normal, the patient was ordered to take a complete rest from his work. After a month's rest the heart rate was down to 90 and at the end of two months it was down to 84. The patient and physician were naturally pleased as the "rest cure" had apparently made operation unnecessary.

However, the next month the heart rate was back up to 100 and the physician felt that the rest cure was not likely to affect a cure; operation was now necessary.

However on questioning the patient further he learned of some domestic trouble that arose from time to time causing the patient great anxiety and so decided to postpone operation.

The patient was able to surmount his domestic trouble by taking a position in another city and three months later his pulse rate was 76 and he was eating and sleeping well. That his condition—thyroid trouble—was the cause of the symptoms—may be confused with thyroid trouble or goitre is ascertained by Dr. E. G. Billings in Colorado Medicine who states that one out of every twenty-one of the new adult admissions to the Colorado General Hospital and Dispensary was referred to the psychiatrist (nervous specialist) for diagnosis (trying to discover the trouble) and treatment. Of this number many were sent in as thyroid cases, whereas "anxiety" was really the cause of the symptoms.

"The anxiety syndrome (combination of symptoms—rapid heart and nervousness) occurs in an individual who is tense and uneasy and is characterized by rather suddenly occurring attacks lasting from a few seconds to an hour, during which the patient feels some difficulty in breathing, rapid heart beat, cold sweats, dizziness, stomach or abdominal upsets and a feeling of weakness. With these attacks there is always an underlying emotional disturbance which is best described as 'anxiety'. The patient has difficulty in sleeping, some loss of appetite, tires easily, has a 'tight' pain in the head, feels confused in his thinking, is irritable, is restless, has lost weight, feels worried but doesn't know why."

You can readily see from Dr. Billings' description of the above symptoms, how a patient by not telling the physician all that is on his mind, could easily be mistaken for a "gouttie" patient.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

Chapter 52

How Jude Died

THERE was an awful wait before the Skipper's level, expressionless voice went on.

"I was about 19 and Jack must have been 23. He'd been away at school, and he'd come home to his father's law office, which he hated, and married a girl his family liked, only to find out that he hated her, too. He was wretched and I felt sorry for him. I wouldn't listen to Martha's warnings. Neither would Father. He told her to mind her own business."

"The upshot of the whole thing was that I suddenly found myself violently in love. He was a handsome kid."

"In those days you couldn't divorce a person just because you hated the sight of her. Jack had no grounds and his wife refused to divorce him. Sounds silly now, but it didn't then. People had a habit of being pretty consistently horrible to anyone who even mentioned such a word. And she was the sort of person who cared a great deal about what people have to say. I didn't blame her much, but I wasn't that type."

"So Jack and I were gloriously happy for a short time, and then our kid was born. Make no mistake about it, Mike. You were born because I wanted you. I knew what I was doing. You were a cute little devil, if I do say so myself. I wanted to name you after your father, but no one would hear of it."

"It was in February." There was a smile in the quiet voice. "You have no idea what an uproar you caused. In her way I don't think Martha blamed me, but she had been tearing her hair for months. She had thinned the servants down to the few old faithfuls among them Higgins. The entire household knew, and the stage was set for a nice, private, Victorian scandal—the one thing above all others that I wanted to avoid."

"We had some lovely scenes. I intended to flout my child in the face of all society, and Martha's ravings on the side of convention meant nothing to me. But my father's did. He blamed himself for ruining my life and went on in awful fashion. Jack's wife nearly died of shame. She entered the final count that licked me. She pointed out that I would be playing a filthy trick on the child. That got me. So they all took up the refrain and rubbed it in."

"As a result old boy, you'll never find another person who will admit that you were born here on Farrington Bluff one February day. Six months later an infant named Michael Farrington II supposedly arrived from the far south where young Norman Farrington and his hypothetical wife had met with a fatal and hypothetical boating accident."

"That ended the chapter—or should have ended it. It ended a lot of things for me, at any rate. They did a good job on me when they set about showing me what I had done to you. Your father and I had been best friends together since you were two weeks old. The risk was too great. I made a little nightmare of my sins to brood over when the nights were long and lonely. Perhaps if I hadn't this horrible thing would never have happened. But it's too late now."

Then Norman Escaped

SHE smiled wily. "On the whole it's been worth it—or I thought it had until recently. You're not a bad brat, Mike. I used to flatter myself that you hadn't suffered because of my pigness. You had every thing a kid could need. You and your father were good friends. I was a pretty happy old fool. And then—poor Norman escaped."

"I've told you about that, but I didn't tell you all of it. He turned up here at night in the middle of a snowstorm. He was—plump. Half-frozen, half-starved and entirely lucky. He wanted protection from the entire world—and above all from 'that place'."

"Martha was frantic. If you've been my fetish, Mike, Norman was hers. I knew from recent alienists' reports that for all his seeming sanity, his condition was in reality worse than ever. But she wouldn't believe it. Norman pleaded and wept; Martha begged and stormed. You see, Father had left the money and everything else in my hands and it was up to me. I finally agreed to let him stay for a while, but I intended to send him back and Martha knew it."

"It was then that I realized my mistake. Martha was not merely upset. She was insane—as insane as ever her poor mother and brother were, but in a crazier, deadlier way. Suddenly she began urging me to send for you, Mike, and when I daily refused, she threatened to write and tell you the whole story. I was an ass. I see that now, but I didn't then. I would have walked off the bluff to keep you from knowing the truth. I was dumb enough for that. I sent for you."

"On the night you arrived, she sprang her whole amazing trap on me. She told me that she had mentioned in my invitation, more to make it sound natural than for any other reason. She said that Jude was arriving within the hour. Her proposition in a nutshell was that either I promise not to send Norman back or she would arrange a marriage between Blinshop's daughter and Blinshop's son."

"I didn't know about you, Gay. Mike is a close-mouthed infant when he wants to be. I did know that Jude was a stunning kid—and that Mike used to be fond of her."

"I was on the verge of doing almost anything when Jude's arrival diverted me. I left her with Martha and went out for a tramp in the rain to try and collect my wits. That was another fatal mistake. It seems that Jack had just told his daughter what I didn't have the courage to tell my son. And Jude, poor kid, proceeded to confide her knowledge to my sister, blowing the whole plan sky-high unless Martha could prevent both Michael and me from talking to Jude. If Michael had heard that story, Martha's last hold over me would have been gone. To make matters worse, Higgins, in the dining room, heard it all. If only he could have told me, so before he did!"

Knew Her Game Was Up

WELL, anyway, you three walked into a pretty mess when you came here Friday night. Martha knew that her game was up, but I didn't, and her one aim was to keep me from knowing it. She made one bad slip. She didn't know that you talked alone with your sister in the game room. She didn't know that Jude had told you the whole thing. And I knew nothing. I lived centuries Friday night when I realized that you were together. I threw out one desperate line to you, Jimmie, and you must have thought I was crazy."

"Upstairs we had an awful session, but the storm cut it short. You see, I consented to let you come on one condition—that Norman was not to be allowed in the house until after you had left. Late Friday afternoon we fixed him up in the bathroom where there was heat, and he seemed quite comfortable. But in the middle of our row we realized that the storm was whipping up a flood tide and that the bathroom wasn't safe. He had an old skeleton key of Father's, but he might have fallen asleep and would be trapped there."

"I thought of William's summer quarters over the garage. I got into my oilskins and went down the back stairs and out along the porch. You were still in the game room, Mike, and I suppose you saw me through the window. I saw you."

"Yes, well, Norman had left the bathroom and I couldn't find him. I thought that sooner or later he would head for either the house or the garage. I got to the garage just as you were coming out of it. Norman had already tried to escape in one of the cars. I doubted that he would go to the house. As a matter of fact, I mostly told the truth about what I was that night. The poor fellow was in a bad way when I got to the stable. I stayed there a long time, and when Norman failed to arrive I started back."

"As luck would have it, I didn't get a chance for a private word with Higgins. He told me his story just before lunch yesterday. It seems that he had kept his eye on Martha's door. As I went down the back stairs, Jude came up from the front, looking for me. Martha met her in the hall, crying and wringing her hands. She told Jude that I had just rushed out the front door shouting that I was going to throw myself off the bluff. Jude rushed out after me. Martha stood behind her on the porch and shot her with Higgins' revolver before the old man could stop her."

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is a hot-weather guide to visitor: who prefer atmosphere with their after-dark efforts to keep cool. The old town is really boiling now and it might be a good idea to sleep in the afternoons and do your rambling nocturnally.

For those who experience nostalgia for the Italian Riviera, there is the Astor roof, a city block in length overlooking the Hudson, with live spruces, blossoms, exotic plants and statuary, all in a decor of Bermuda coral and frost white.

Keeping to the Riviera motif but getting away from the hotels is Ben Marden's new club on the Hudson Heights near Fort Lee, which is a spurt across the George Washington bridge and a roller or so down the pike. It's a superior rendezvous to the one which burned down last Thanksgiving and has been richly appointed by the indefatigable Professor Marden.

THEN there is the Summer Terrace at the New Yorker whose floor show is an ice carnival. The highest point in town, of course, is the Rainbow Room, in Radio City, where one may glide to the strains of favorite tunes 65 stories above the sidewalks. The roof at the St. Regis is Venetian in mood. I do not know what arrangements, if any, the nightclubs have made or whether cooling systems have been installed. However, the Starlight Roof at the Waldorf is a paradise of cooling breezes and pleasant memories.

Fast fading from the Fifth Avenue scene are the open-air double-decker buses, but by all means commander one, if possible and have a night ride up the avenue and out along Riverside Drive. These buses are where boy-meets-girl and where everybody from tired business men to actors and engineers hie themselves on sultry nights. The ride costs you ten cents and is worth a dollar.

They say the Tavern-On-The-Green in Central Park is elegant, though I haven't been there yet. They have dancing out of doors, and inside, too, for those who prefer it.

ALONG about this time of year the showboats get busy also. They're quite large, and they achieve the effect of floating night clubs. Their mission is to take you about at the Battery and steam up the Hudson for several hours and back. There is dancing and a show, but the refreshments are largely mineral waters and beer, hard liquor being strictly taboo.

Walking in the park, around the reservoir or along the shores of the little lakes, is a favorite pastime and is an excellent way to defeat the heat waves.

Sun Down Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"CAN'T I see you even in this light?" asked Willy Nilly. "The stars are coming out now and if you come closer to me I might be able to have a look at you. I've heard a whip-poor-will before, but I've never seen one."

"It's hard to see me," the whip-poor-will answered, "because I look rather like the woods with my mottled brown feathers. To be sure there are touches of white in my suit, but they are really more gray than white, and the reddish mixture in my feathers all fits in with the look of the woods."

"Mrs. Whip-Poor-Will hasn't even the white tail quills I like. I'll come closer so you may see."

What a large beak he had and how unusually it was fringed with bristles, Willy Nilly thought.

"You do look like the woods," "I think we both fit into them," the whip-poor-will answered,

"and that suits us for we love the woods, and we love the darkness of night."

"Mrs. Whip-Poor-Will will join me in a moment. She was not quite sure if all were safe, and she took the two creamy white eggs right in her beak and flew off with them. She had them before."

"I'm sorry if I frightened you," said Willy Nilly.

"There were others with you," the whip-poor-will answered, "and we always want to be certain of our safety. In fact we're careful about a number of things. For instance, we never get caught by a cold winter. We don't like the cold and we fly south in plenty of time each year and do not come back too early. Ah, here she comes."

Tomorrow—"Mrs. Whip-Poor-Will"

Cottage cheese, or pot cheese as it is known in some parts of the country, is the simplest use to make of sour milk. Let the milk get quite thick, then pour it into a cornucopia shaped cloth bag. One made of a double thickness of cheese cloth is good; falling that thin sheeting will do nicely. Hang the bag up and let the liquid drip for twenty-four hours. Season the remaining cheese with salt, pepper, ground or whole cayenne seeds and serve either with sweet or sour cream. With bread and butter and a fruit dessert this is an excellent supper or luncheon dish.

Outdoor Poultry Feeder

A large part of Cornell's service to the poultry industry has come from the use of poultry appliances devised at the New York state college of agriculture.

The newest is an outdoor poultry feeder that is light, inexpensive, and simple in construction. It is easily filled and cleaned. It keeps feed dry, and serves somewhat as a shelter for the birds. A bulletin gives necessary directions.

Camp's A Good Place To Learn Homemaking

COOKING MADE EASY
Biscuit making is only one of the many arts Girl Scouts learn in camp kitchens.

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Homemaking needn't always be learned at home. Parents have found that there's more incentive for youngsters to plan and prepare a meal if they work with children their own age, than if they watch at home to see how mother does it.

Every summer thousands of children at Scout camps throughout the country go domestic.

It's fun, not drudgery, for these girls to get up meals on a limited budget. They vie with each other for the job of marketing.

Write Own Ticket
Lest their sweet tooth run away with them, there's a dietitian on hand who okay's the proposed menu.

Even 10-year-olds have a part in ordering and preparing meals. And such routine as setting the table and washing dishes isn't a bugbear when taken in shifts.

Since the girls are managed under a flexible program which lets them largely write their own ticket, they can carry their domesticity as far as they like.

Homemaking seems to be the popular pursuit, with swimming second.

Seeks Winter Instruction
As a result of the flexible plan, says Miss Hazel K. Allen, head of the Girl Scout camping division, the campers are more relaxed, offer fewer disciplinary problems and achieve greater individual development.

She hopes that some day camping will be introduced into the schools as a winter activity. It's just as vital, she asserts, for a child to be able to cook on a pack trip as to be captain of the school basketball team.

James Smithson, Founder of Institution, English

James Smithson was a natural son of Hugh Smithson, duke of Northumberland, by a Mrs. Elizabeth Macle of Wiltshire, England. He was educated at Oxford, and early became a chemist and scientific writer. One of his maxims was: "The man of science is of no country; the world is his country, all mankind his countrymen," a maxim which was illustrative of his life and death; for he spent most of his life in France and Germany, was buried in Italy, and left his entire fortune, some half million dollars, to the United States government to be administered for "the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Smithson was born in England about the year 1754; the exact place and date are unknown, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He died at Genoa, Italy, June 27, 1829, and was buried in the English cemetery near that city. In 1906 his remains were brought to this country.

As a scientist he was honored by being elected to the Royal Society and many other learned bodies, but that which does most to immortalize him is the Smithsonian Institution, established by act of congress in 1846. From the income of the fund, the Smithsonian building was erected, while gifts and accumulated interest have since greatly increased the endowment.

The institution aids investigators by making grants for research and exploration, providing for lectures, publishing scientific papers, initiating scientific projects, etc. It has administrative charge of the National museum, the National Gallery of Art, the National Zoological park, the Astrophysical Observatory, and other agencies.

Use Corn Flour in Bread as Wheat Rises in Brazil

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil.—The cost of wheat has risen so high that bread is being made by the addition of corn flour. To maintain the price of bread the municipality decreed a mixture of one-fifth corn flour and four-fifths wheat flour. Immediately the price of corn went up.

Home Institute LEARN TO DRESS SMARTLY

Look Lovely This Summer on Small Budget

Sue has a small budget and a grand time. She never turns down an invitation because she has "nothing to wear". She plans all her wardrobe at one time, looks smart the summer long.

To avoid buying a lot of accessories, Sue keys her clothes to one basic color each season. Navy's smart for early spring and looks cool, too, with mid-summer pastels. So she chose handbags, garbarding pumps and baku hats, tailored, but wide enough for a touch of formality—all in navy. For business, movies, week-ends she selected a cadet blue printed jacket dress. Or she might have chosen a royal blue, carnelian, ginger, rose or green dress. Any of these colors goes well with navy.

For daytime heat she got a three-piece outfit of navy, yellow and white printed plique. With pleated shorts under a wrap-around skirt, it's ready for active sports, too.

For dining, tea and informal evening, she bought a floral print of white, rose and blue.

Her coat is a topper, white or navy, that she wears with all her dresses, even her lace evening dress.

A crownless turban and washable gloves are her only white accents. She shuns white shoes and bags, towards chic for her wardrobe.

You, too, can dress smartly on little. Our 40-page booklet, SECRETS OF BEING WELL-DRESSED, tells best lines for your figure, best colors for your complexion, best values in fabrics. Basic dress plan. Spend 15c to save $15.

Send 15c for our booklet, SECRETS OF BEING WELL-DRESSED, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 15th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Have you ever had a tense moment like this?

He stopped at the corner of the street, gazed into the sky, scratched his chin, and fingered his mustache. Then he fumbled in his pocket, wrinkled his brow, pursed up his lips and blew his nose.

Then, muttering to himself, he fixed his eyes on the huge electric sign high above the street.

A crowd collected, blocking the sidewalk and holding up the traffic. But he was only trying to think what it was his wife told him not to forget.

Several times in most of our lives the average man forces the difficult problem of trying to decide which will cost less:

To tell the truth, or hire a lawyer.

Hotel Maid (to new arrival)—The proprietress says, madam, that she will move your dressing table, alter the position of your bed, let you have another blanket, and provide some wedges for your windows, stop the clock striking on the landing, and give you a separate table to eat by the window—but she says you'll have to take the weather as you find it.

Here is something for the stamp enthusiasts to explain: On the four cent stamp of the army series, issued a few weeks ago, Stonewall Jackson outranks Robert E. Lee. The new stamp depicts Jackson as the wearer of three stars, which would actually make him outrank the commanding officer, General Lee, who is shown with only two, the insignia of a major general.

A timid college professor was being questioned about a train wreck which had occurred through a head-on collision:

Attorney (leveling a finger at the teacher)—You! You were starting to walk across the track on the Williamstown road on the afternoon of November 23, were you not?

Professor—You looked to the right and saw a train coming on the track at a terrific speed?

Professor—Yes, sir.

Attorney—Then you looked to the left and saw another train coming around the curve on the same track at great speed also. Is that right?

Professor—Yes, sir.

Attorney—And what did you do?

Professor—I-I-I stepped off the track.

Attorney (lowering his voice to a dramatic whisper)—And then—?

Professor (agitated and stammering)—Why, er-er, I thought to myself, "this is a highly improper way to operate a railroad."

Poor Professor—What's the formula for water, Jones?

Scholar Jones (spelling out)—H I J K L M N O.

Poor Professor (barking)—What's that?

Scholar Jones (repeating slowly)—H I J K L M N O.

Poor Professor—What in the world are you driving at? What gave you that idea?

Scholar Jones—You, sir. You said yesterday it was H to O.

Read it or not:

One out of every 400 persons now living is certain to be shot, stabbed, poisoned, choked or blackjacked.

One out of every 500 persons now living is destined to be a murderer.

Pat Murphy was taking his first flight in an airplane. The pilot was taking him over New York city when they were up about 3,000 feet, the plane suddenly went into a nosedive.

Pilot (laughing and shouting to Pat)—Ha, ha! Fifty per cent of the people down there thought we were falling!

Pat—Bogoroo, and fifty per cent of the people up here thought so, too.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

This "crossing over" is pointed out by Dr. Louis Casamajor, who says it must be considered one of the primitive principles of nature. In case of pain the crossing is done before the brain is reached. The nerve fibers carrying the pain sensation cross from one side of the spinal cord to the other.

In that crossing-over comes the reflex, which makes a person jerk away from a hurt. There is no sensation of pain until the nerve message passes beyond the spinal cross-over, and reaches the thalamus, base of the brain.

HEM AND AMY.

THIS WAY OUT—

Urges Husbands to Sing in the Bath

Cincinnati, O.—What this country needs, said Dr. Thomas James Kelly, is "not more professional vocalists but a whole army of bathroom singers."

Widely known as a musical authority, Dr. Kelly spoke before the closing session of a regional conference on adult education.

America's bathing tenors need not press the issue too hard in order to induce their artistry, he suggested, "admitting" the possibility that too often any suppression was due to "their wives and families."

"Wives should not only encourage their husbands to sing in the bathtub," declared Dr. Kelly, "but they should even bring them out into the living room singing."

Handleman Was Asphyxiated

gear which was later found in the brush and weeds and grass of the McDole property was taken from a room adjoining that of Brown in the village. We will show where he got the gear and just where it was found and where he threw it after the crime. We will show that it was found thrown down a bank in sight of the Handleman house and that Brown left Ellenville directly before the fire was discovered and about 10 o'clock that morning at approximately the time the Handleman fire broke out," said the prosecuting attorney.

J. Edward Conway for defense waived any opening remarks and asked that the district attorney specify under what specific section of the law he would proceed to trial.

Judge Traver denied the application and said that in his opening Mr. Murray had so indicated. The court assumed the prosecution was to proceed under the provision of the law known as a "felony murder" and identified and explained sketches and plans of the Handleman house. He said as one entered the kitchen door from an enclosed porch, there were two doors to open. From the kitchen one could enter the living room from which stairs led to the upper floor. To the right was the bedroom about 11 feet by 8 feet, which Mr. and Mrs. Handleman occupied and in which the fire had been. He described the room and the various windows.

Next came Casper Cosenza, Ellenville photographer, who identified several pictures of the premises. He also showed pictures of the street on which the Handleman house is located and of the view toward the McDole house where the pinion gear was later found with blood on it.

Identifies Picture

Burton H. Wood, Ellenville undertaker, called. He said he had gone to the Handleman house on April 8 and removed the bodies to his undertaking place. He was shown pictures of the room where he found the bodies and said they were correct and true representations. The body of the man he said was found on the floor between the twin beds with the head toward the southwest window. The extremities were about burned away. He said he had seen Handleman about Ellenville with his push-cart and knew him during his lifetime. He identified a picture taken during Handleman's lifetime. The picture was shown for identification purposes.

It was about 8 o'clock on April 8 morning that the two bodies were removed. Mr. Wood said one body was that of a man and one that of a woman.

Dr. George F. Harker of Kerhonkson was called next. He said he had examined the bodies at the Wood and Russett undertaking morgue on April 8 with Dr. James C. Coles and they had performed an autopsy as best they could. They were man and woman. Confining his testimony to the body of the man he said both legs were burned almost off at the knee and the whole body was badly charred. He said the arms were also burned away.

"The front of the face had been wounded in some way," said the doctor. Mr. Conway for defense objected and the remark was stricken. "The face looked as though it had been struck," said the doctor and this too was objected to and struck out. Again the doctor said the face was partially charred and the "center of the face looked as though it had been struck"—again an objection.

"Well the face was partially disfigured," said Dr. Harker, and this stood. He said that was his opinion from his examination of the body of the man.

He said he had seen a piece of pinion gear when he was summoned before the grand jury but he had not examined it and it had not been called to his attention. It was on a table in the room.

The nose of the man was almost entirely gone, only the body structure remained and this was what appeared to have been wounded.

Death at asphyxiation from burning while the victim was in a coma, he said.

Evidently Injured

On cross examination Dr. Harker said there appeared to be an injury to the bony structure of the nose, but that the bone structure was "almost missing." He said the bodies were very badly burned and some parts missing.

"Death in your opinion came from asphyxiation?" asked Mr. Conway. "No, not exactly, it came after they went into a coma," replied the doctor. He said he could not say they died of the thing that put them into the coma.

He said he was talking from observations and from experience. He believed if a person was knocked into a coma and did not come out of it they would die from a burning. These people he said were in a coma and being in a coma they were asphyxiated. He said he had made no examination of the contents of the stomach and the bodies were too badly burned to tell if there was any disease prior to death.

In his opinion Mr. Handleman, or the man whose body he viewed, had died while in an unconscious condition.

Dr. Harker said the coma might have been caused by a blow and the statement was objected to. Stricken out.

Dr. James C. Coles, of Ellenville.

was called. He told of the post-mortem examination and said he had extracted a quantity of blood from the heart of the man and turned it over to the state troopers. He did not see the body at the house. He told of finding the body on a sheet in the undertaking morgue and of difficulty in removing the sheet because of the badly burned condition of the body. Flesh came away with the sheet. He told of the horribly burned condition of the body which exposed the internal organs and the face was badly burned the brain exposed. Evidently the body had lain on its back when the burning took place for the back and rear portion of the head was not so badly burned. There was still hair in the back of the skull.

The position of the body so far as he could tell from the burns which he observed, had been lying out straight on its back and the arms and legs in a placid condition, straight out.

He said in his opinion the cause of death was burning while in an unconscious condition. Death was not due alone to burning and asphyxiation. It had been a difficult thing to determine the cause of death because of the condition of the body.

Recess to 2 o'clock.

DAMS IN SIERRAS
TO WIPE OUT TOWN

Project Will Reverse River and Check Floods.

Redding, Cal.—High in the Sierra watershed, this thriving community awaits actual construction on the Central Valley project, California's $170,000,000 solution to its greatest problem—winter floods and summer water shortage.

Completion of preliminary surveys and selection of near-by Kennett as the focal dam site have been announced.

Magnitude of the project almost staggers the imagination. Greater than the famed Boulder Canyon dam development, the Central Valley project includes plans for a 500-mile waterway from the upper Sacramento river, down through the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys to the great citrus fruit regions of southern California.

The valleys lie midway between the Sierra range and the Pacific coast, and San Francisco and Los Angeles lean heavily upon their productivity.

Project to Pay Out.

A self-liquidating undertaking, the project will repay federal loans by sale of water and power.

The 420-foot dam at Kennett at the headwaters of the Sacramento river will impound 3,000,000 acre feet of water, half as much as the combined total of California's 750 other dams, assuring a year-round controlled river flow. The dam will give to 800,000 acres of settled lands flood protection valued at $14,000,000 and assure year-round river navigation valued at $15,000,000.

Spectacular engineering feats will be necessary. The main line of the Southern Pacific must be rerouted and U. S. highway 99 will be radically revamped.

Kennett itself will be at the bottom of a huge lake, with the water's surface far above the present roof-tops.

A double-deck bridge, with the world's tallest piers, will carry automobile and railroad traffic far above the Pitt river.

River Boats to Fly.

River boats, a joy to the hearts of sentimentalists and a source of profit to business men, again will reach Red Bluff, sixty miles south of here, from Sacramento and San Francisco.

Inland encroachment of salt water from the San Francisco bay area will be halted. Aridity in the San Joaquin valley will be checked.

At the top of the San Joaquin watershed, the 4,000-foot Friant dam will become the longest concrete dam in the world, making the San Joaquin river run backward and carrying much needed irrigation water over step dams under pressure.

From a national viewpoint interest centers on the project because its completion will mean assurance of water normalcy in an area from which are drawn the country's choicest specialty crops of raisins, figs, olives, prunes, citrus fruits, vegetables and cotton.

The big job will require: More than 7,000,000 cubic yards of concrete; 28,800,000 pounds of reinforcing steel; 114,543,000 pounds of structural steel; 6,400,000 barrels of cement; 38,311,000 cubic yards of excavation and 186,224,000 man-hours of labor.

Postal Guide Locates

an Elusive Post Office

Peck, Kan.—The postal guide from Washington finally has caught up with its office here.

The directory had listed the post-office as located in Sedgwick county, although since 1933 it has been in Sumner county.

The difficulty arises from the fact that the main street of Peck divides the two counties. Location of the office has been changed frequently from one side of the street to the other, although it always has remained within a 300-foot radius of the center of the town.

Honored as 50-Year
Members of Adonai
Lodge in Highland

A notable event was celebrated in the rooms of Adonai Lodge, 718, F. & A. M., at Highland Monday night, when four members of the lodge were awarded grand lodge medals signifying that they had been Masons for 50 years or more. Particularly interesting was the fact that all four of the prominent men so honored were raised in Adonai Lodge, which has always been their Masonic home.

The four men to receive the medals were Attorney A. D. Lent, 87, of Highland, 57 years a Mason; Captain K. H. Decker, 88, of Highland, 56 years a Mason; Attorney S. G. Carpenter, 86, of Highland, 52 years a Mason; the Hon. Edward Young, 74, of Milton, 50 years a Mason.

The medals were presented by J. W. Peeter, past master of Adonai Lodge and past deputy grand master. Mr. Peeter, in his pleasing presentation address, congratulated the recipients on their long and honorable careers, not only as members of the Masonic fraternity, but as well known and prominent citizens in the community. He also took occasion to refer to the wonderful discoveries and inventions that the world has witnessed since they took their obligations as Master Masons.

Mr. Young is known throughout Ulster county as a former Assemblyman for two terms and a former supervisor. Messrs. Carpenter and Lent are prominent Ulster county attorneys and both have been honored by election to various official positions. Captain Decker, now retired, is a former well known Hudson river steamboat captain.

A pleasing feature of the evening's program was an address by the Rev. Dr. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church. About 75 members of Adonai Lodge and guests enjoyed the ceremonies of the evening and the fine refreshments which followed adjournment.

College Uses Recordings

for Speech Instruction

Crawfordsville, Ind.—Wabash college, pioneer in the field of college speakers' bureaus, uses a new instrument in speech instruction—a portable recording machine.

The equipment was designed principally for use in courses on diction, interpretative reading and beginning speech, where recordings of students' class speeches are made periodically, filed away and then played back at a later date so that the student may hear his progress or lack of it.

In courses on articulation and pronunciation, where it is necessary to give verbal instructions and then correct the student's errors, of which he himself was unaware, it now is possible to record his speech and permit him to hear himself as others do.

Instructors in the speech department also plan to use the device to record addresses of men who represent Wabash college in oratorical contests.

The college long has been noted for its speakers and since 1925 has maintained a college speakers' bureau from which it supplies carefully trained students for addresses before luncheon clubs and other organizations. During the eight years of its existence the bureau has filled almost 800 engagements.

Night accidents, which account for nearly 60 per cent of all motor fatalities, are on the increase, says the American Automobile Association.

13 Jurors Will Hear Evidence in Brown Case Starting Today

Exhausting the regularly drawn extra panel of jurors Monday afternoon in county court where Charles James Brown is on trial for the murder of Isidore Handelman at Ellenville on April 8, County Judge Frederick G. Traver directed Sheriff Molyneux to summon 20 talesmen, all qualified jurors. At the opening of the court Monday morning he had informed Attorneys J. Edward Conway and Robert G. Groves for plaintiff, and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray for the prosecution, that unless the jury box was filled from the regularly drawn extra panels, he would make an order directing the sheriff to summon talesmen.

After five of the talesmen had been examined the man for the 12th seat was secured and then the work of selecting the 13th man, an alternate juror, began. Three men were examined before the alternate was finally accepted.

First Extra Juror

This is the first time in Ulster county that an alternate juror has been selected to sit in a criminal case. Under Section 358-a of the Code a judge may direct that an extra man be summoned and seated during the trial of an important criminal action which gives evidence of becoming a lengthy and protracted trial. Should anything happen to one of the panel of 12 men the alternate, who listens to the evidence along with the regular panel, is substituted so that a panel of 12 jurors may decide the case. If the extra man is not needed he is dismissed when the regular jury retires for deliberations. The purpose of the alternate juror is to prevent a delay in a trial in the event of illness of a juror.

The 12 men on the regular panel are: Jeremiah Mulhern, Kingston. William J. Mooney, Glencliff. Frank A. Reis, Sr., Kingston. Walter S. Berry, New Paltz. Vernon Fairbairn, Hardenberg. William Scott, Kingston. Harold Walker, Clintondale. Raymond Bell, West Shokan. Fred Velle, Marlborough. Joseph DuBois, Gardiner. Albert Schreiber, Marlborough. Muri Auchmoody, Kyserlike.

The alternate juror is Jesse Myer of Mt. Marion. Following selection of the jury shortly after 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, the jurors were placed in charge of four officers and will be in custody of Sheriff Molyneux until the evidence is in. During their service the jurors will be at the Hotel Stuyvesant. Judge Traver advised the jurors to take care of their health so that nothing might happen to cause a mistrial and told them that he hoped they would take the matter of their confinement for a few days in a philosophical manner and become a happy family together.

Officers in Charge of Jury

The jury will be in the charge of Officers Hashbrouck, Skane, Barnes and Wager during their service.

At the afternoon session Monday, Leonard Clark was called and excused by defense. Then Raymond Kirby was excused by consent and Harold Taylor, who said he had been on the Robert Brown criminal case, was excused by the defense.

Albert Schreiber of the town of Marlborough, a farmer, was selected to sit in No. 11 seat. Dale W. Auchmoody was excused by the defense. Luther Keator was excused by the district attorney. Oscar Fairbairn of Hardenberg, a cousin of No. 5 juror, was challenged for cause by The People.

Panel Exhausted

This exhausted the regularly summoned panel and Sheriff Molyneux was called to bring in 20 talesmen. After a short recess the trial was resumed.

Clarence Lehman of Kingston was excused by defense. John Weninger of West Hurley was excused when he said he was a bit hard of hearing. Edward T. Pratt of Kingston, carpenter, was challenged for cause and sustained. Walter S. Van Steenburgh of Kingston was excused by The People. David Burgevin of Kingston was challenged and sustained.

Muri Auchmoody, Kyserlike clothing cutter, proved satisfactory and was sworn as the 12th man in the box. The first man examined for the alternate juror was Arthur Merrill of Kingston. He was challenged by The People and challenge was sustained by the court. Charles V. Hogan of Kingston was excused by defense. Jesse Myer of Mt. Marion was accepted and sworn as alternate. The cast was adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

TOWNSEND CLUB MEETS FOR LAWN SOCIAL TONIGHT

Tonight at the residence of Miss Cromie, 11 Derrenbacher street, the Townsend Club will hold its second lawn social of this season. Cake and cream will be served at a very modest price. The public is invited.

The club expects in the near future to entertain as its guests a large delegation from the Newburgh Townsend Club.

Lake Katrine

The regular Lake Katrine 4-H meeting was held at the home of Veronica Schaffner on June 12.

The club planned to make postcards for their dance which is to be held on June 17.

They also decided to sell candy to earn money to send the girls to 4-H camp in August.

The next meeting will be June 26.

After the meeting delicious refreshments were served.

The popular belief that persons with red hair have a temper is discounted by Dr. D. B. Klein, professor of psychology at the University of Texas. "No relation has been worked out yet between a certain characteristic and a given bodily trait," he says.

While Canada's quints make millions, America's quads haven't been doing so well.

The four Keys girls of Hollis, Okla., might have made money, but their father refused all offers. Now, however—22 and just graduated from Baylor College, Texas, America's oldest quads are going on the air for cash.

The Morlok family of Lansing, Mich., also shied away from commercialization when four daughters were born seven years ago. But the city gave the jobless father a $200-a-month job as constable and he was reelected on a "quadruplets" platform.

When quadruplet boys were born to the Kasper family of Little Ferry, N. J., a year ago, the quintuplets were much in the news. So the family was showered with cash. The first year's total, reportedly $7,000, included $50 a week from a newspaper and $100 a month from a San Francisco woman in memory of her son, who died on the quads' birthday.

3,000 Attend Show Opening at Airport

There were about 3,000 people at the opening of the World's Exposition Shows last night at Powell's grounds near the airport, where the show is exhibiting under the auspices of Excelsior Hose Co. all this week, with a matinee on Saturday. The attractions apparently pleased the people who attended.

The two free acts on the midway were the source of much comment. The shooting of a woman out of a big cannon to be caught by Samson, was successfully accomplished. Unless Flying Quartet, composed of three males and one female, gave a distinctly new variety of aerial gymnastics, and their act performed about 40 feet in the air gave universal satisfaction.

The various shows were well patronized and the rides had plenty of patrons. The new devices are the tilt-a-whirl and the thriller, which met with good patronage. The circus side show with the Ripley Oddities in real life, was the mecca for most of the people and it was crowded all evening, while a number of the lighter minded flocked into the Rainbow Follies. The shows are open each night at 7 o'clock and the matinee on Saturday at 1 p. m.

GROCER'S BOY HELD FOR HOMICIDE IN BROOKLYN

New York, June 15 (AP)—Lawrence Collette Millon, an 18-year-old grocer's boy with a new 22-calibre rifle, was arrested last night on a homicide charge less than 24 hours after the mysterious shooting of a Brooklyn housewife, Mrs. Dorothy Carlucci, 39, as she was leaving a motion picture theatre.

District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan said the boy acknowledged that he had tried out his weapon last night on a roof three blocks from where Mrs. Carlucci slumped to the sidewalk with a bullet in her heart.

Geoghan said the boy told him he had fired at a light on the marquee of the theatre.

Geoghan described Lawrence as "a bright boy who feels the death of the woman very keenly."

Those Dionne girls are not feminine Einsteins, but seem rather normal. According to the recent birthday dispatches, they love cake and their mother.

The annual school picnic of District No. 4, town of Ulster, will be held Wednesday evening, June 16, at the school grounds. In the event of rain the picnic will be held at Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

Couples Club Held Its Annual Outing

The annual outing and kids party of the Y. M. C. A. Couples Club, Saturday, at the Y Camp at Glenrie, proved an affair full of fun from the time the events started in the afternoon until the dance ended at 12 o'clock.

The softball baseball game was won by Neland Fuller and his heavy hitters who defeated to a score of 15 to 5 the cohorts of Robert L. Slason.

During the balance of the afternoon the guests enjoyed the swimming, boating and horseshoe pitching. Contests were held to determine the funniest costumes and the best dressed like a youngster and the judges were Mr. and Mrs. William Wright.

At 5:30 p. m. the group sat down to an appetizing dinner which was served under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Schutt and Mr. and Mrs. Leston Decker.

To the tunes of Siskies Hill Billy orchestra, of Saugerties, square dancing was enjoyed by the couples. The committee of arrangements consisted of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, George Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Slason.

Besides those mentioned in the first part of the article the guests were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Neland H. Fuller, of New Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. George French, Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Flicker, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Craig, and Gordon Craig, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder and the Rev. H. D. McGrath.

President Broughton announced that the club would convene again in September.

W. G. Brennan Inherits Estate

New York, June 14.—(Special).—William G. Brennan of 278 Main street, Kingston, receives one sixth the estate left by his mother, the late Mary Brennan, under the terms of her will filed for probate today in Surrogate's Court. The value of his inheritance is unknown pending an appraisal of property.

Mrs. Brennan, widow of Thomas F. Brennan, died May 29, at her home, 124 East 91st Street here. Her property is formally declared "more than $10,000."

Other beneficiaries are John J. and the Rev. Francis Brennan, of New York, Mrs. Agnes McCarthy, of Flushing, L. I., and Mrs. Gertrude McGloin, of Great Neck, L. I., sons and daughters.

Same old trouble in this supposedly free country. Everybody wants to boss everybody else.

Good Fishing

Atlanta, Ga.—A dry land fisherman landed two pairs of trousers and $19 before Mrs. Joe Handspike broke up his angling party by screaming when she saw her husband's pants leave a chair and start toward a window.

Percy Davis later reported his trousers and $12 lost to the thief who apparently hooked them through an open window. Wall Watts said he was hooked for $7 but the garment was left on the window sill after the pockets were emptied.

Flat-Foot

Salt Lake City—Missing: One pair of black shoes. Size 24.

The owner?

Los Angeles' chief of detectives, Joseph L. Taylor, retiring president of the International Footprint Association, an organization of law enforcement officers.

Members presented the footgear to Taylor at the annual convention. Some officers mentioned thieves, Taylor—among others—suspects pranksters.

Where's the Toast?

Denver—How much scrambled eggs would this make?

A market truck loaded with 15,000 eggs collided with a milk truck. Contents of both vehicles splattered to the pavement. A hundreds chickens, on the egg truck, escaped and were chased by a horde of small boys. Few were returned to the owner.

Bum Steer

Gillette, Wyo.—The Gillette American Legion Post found wild steers scarce when it sought, as in past years, to borrow some for its Fourth of July rodeo.

The fact a steer loses about 20 pounds a day during a rodeo might explain the reluctance of ranchers to lend their animals, one Legionnaire said.

Anyway, there'll be wild steers at the show. The Legionnaires bought a carload.

BOY SINGERS AT PHOENICIA

He was arraigned before Justice Lester S. Davis, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

SECTIONS OF ENORMOUS PILLARS CRASH IN ROME.

Vatican City, June 15 (AP).—Huge sections of several of the enormous marble pillars in St. Peter's, the world's largest cathedral, crashed to the pavement today.

The falling blocks of marble did not endanger tourists in the great courtyard of St. Peter's. But Monsignor Luigi Pellizzo, secretary of the cathedral building committee, ordered a thorough inspection of all columns inside the cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Christensen and children of Rifton were callers at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Mary Peters, on Sunday.

The Zimmerman family of Brooklyn spent the week-end at the Bacher homestead.

It was about 7:30 when Frank Myers, proprietor of Orchard Inn at Shokan, noticed smoke issuing from the bungalow occupied by Krom, his wife and two children. The bungalow adjoins the Orchard Inn.

Myers and his son, knowing that no one was in the house at the time, entered and discovered a fire burning briskly in the cellar, the flames having already started to burn through the floor above into the kitchen. An extinguisher was secured and the fire put out after which Myers notified Trooper Raymond Dunn of Phenicia.

Troopers Dunn and Wright, assisted by a member of the B. C. I. who had been notified, began an immediate investigation. They were told that Krom, with his family, had left for Kingston half an hour or so before the fire was discovered. The fire, it was apparent, had been started with newspapers, which were only a day old.

Made Statement
It was about 11 o'clock when Krom and his family returned from Kingston. He was questioned at length and at first denied any knowledge of the fire. Later, according to Trooper Dunn, he made a statement admitting that he had started the fire and then left with his wife and children to visit his grandmother in Kingston. He told the officers that he was in destitute circumstances and the fire was started in order to collect $1,000 insurance on the furniture. The house, which is owned by Burton Christiansa, of Kingston, was not insured.

Krom and his family formerly occupied the apartments over the garage of Chester A. Lyon, of Ashokan, which burned recently with heavy loss, while Mr. Lyon was in Florida. Krom was employed in the garage as a mechanic at the time.

The cause of the Lyon fire was not established. Another fire of mysterious origin, only a few weeks after the burning of the garage, was that which destroyed the Wheat house at Shokan.

The number of fires in the Ashokan section within a few months, with several of them unexplained, has caused considerable anxiety among residents of that section. Trooper Dunn has been investigating the matter for some time past and has been greatly helped in his inquiries by Supervisor Lemuel DuBois, of the town of Olive, who also took a hand in investigating the fire at the Krom place Monday night.

Hollywood
Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Mervyn LeRoy was directing an intimate love scene between Gloria Dickson and Edward Norris, but his final instruction was to the set-workers behind the camera, not to the players.

"Please move over, everybody—out of their line of vision," George Fitzmaurice was directing William Powell and Luise Rainer in a not-to-intimate scene, and he said the same thing, directing his remark, I'm afraid, at me who was not in their line of vision anyway. I remember thinking at the time Fitzmaurice was just an excitable crank, that Mr. Powell didn't give a hoot about his line of vision anyway.

And I left the set before finding out what Mr. Powell thought, but since then I've learned that many actors have trouble with the things they see while filming.

Distracts Actors

Jan Hunter, no ham, vouchsafed that he does.

"It's most distracting," he explained, "to lay my soul bare to Kay Francis, when out of the corner of my eye I see a little lady from Kankakee, a visitor on the set, nudge her husband and grin."

Kay Francis had her say, too. She was doing a love scene with George Brent once, and Brent was saying "Look at me and you will see the love in my eyes."

"I looked. Over his shoulder I saw, not the love in his eyes, but a proto man biting off a big chew of tobacco."

The surroundings of a movie set are not exactly inspiring. People on the sidelines, looking in, see actors at work. The actors, under the camera's eye and looking out, see the camera, the microphone boom man, the director, from ten to 50 set-workers, and any visitors who may be on hand.

Love Scene Flusters

In many a love scene, the screen lovers have just met each other when the romancing starts. Sometimes it is how-do-you-do and give-me-a-kiss for the cameras. Dick Powell had barely met Doris Weston when they had to start making ardent love scenes. Dick takes them in stride by now, but Miss Weston, new to films, found the abruptness disconcerting.

Humphrey Bogart holds that seeing somebody in the audience engrossed in something else while you're tearing your heart out is irritating on stage or movie set.

"Once on the stage," he recalled, "I was saying a tearful farewell to the heroine and I was wrapped up in that scene. Holding her close, I suddenly glimpsed a movement in the audience. It was a stout man in the second row, rhythmically sweeping a comb across his hair."

"That was when the heroine said 'Ouch.' In my anger I'd nearly broken the lady's rib!"

Thursday Group for Blind Sale Named

Kingstonians and residents of Ulster county are asked to patronize the sale for the blind at Broadway and Albany avenue this week to help those trying to help toward their support regardless of their great handicap.

"Idleness, not blindness, is the greatest burden of the blind," said Helen Keller. Those able to attend the sale are asked to think of this and remember that their patronage will help solve this problem, as well as the economic one of maintenance.

All sorts of articles made by the blind will be offered, all sorts of games and toys, and dolls, comparable to those turned out by leading manufacturers of the country.

Thursday the following committees will be in charge of the sale:

10 a. m. to 2 p. m.—Rondout Presbyterian, Miss Grace Terwilliger, chairman; Mrs. P. Canfield, Mrs. C. D. Carter, Mrs. M. R. Coutant, Mrs. A. M. Cragin, Mrs. Louis Beeres, Mrs. V. J. Faulkner, Mrs. C. J. Helsenman, Mrs. W. I. Hutton, Mrs. W. C. Kingman, Mrs. H. S. Mayon, Mrs. Alice Metcalf, Mrs. A. H. Russell, Mrs. Fred Stephan, Mrs. J. B. Sterley and Mrs. Charles Terwilliger.

2 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.—Ponckhockie Congregational, Mrs. Harry H. Brodhead, chairman; Mrs. Marie B. Osterhoudt, Mrs. S. Thompson, Mrs. Abram Rappleyea and Mrs. Frank Storm.

Interlocutory Decree

Lottie V. Miller has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in an action against her husband, Nelson J. Miller, also known as Nelson J. Mueller. Louis G. Bruhn appeared as counsel for Mrs. Miller. The decree recites the fact that the parties were married at Kingston, April 19, 1920. Acts upon which the decree is granted are alleged to have taken place in town of Ulster on July 13, 1936. By the order of Justice Harry E. Schrick the decree will become final in three months. Plaintiff is awarded custody of a child of the marriage.

Today

Broadway: "The Prince and the Pauper." Mark Twain's story of reckless adventure concerning a boy king and a street urchin comes as an entertainment treat to the Broadway against the intrigue and color of the 18th century. A costume picture, it relates the interesting history of two small boys whose resemblance is so startling that the boy king changes places with the boy urchin for a day and nearly alters the course of destiny. The show also offers two new juvenile stars in the Mauch Twins and also the popular Errol Flynn in the role of a swashbuckling adventurer. Alive with exciting, fighting, romance and all those essentials that make a picture enjoyable, this production is sure to appeal to old and young alike.

Kingston: "Nobody's Baby" and "Talk of the Devil." Music, mixups and maternity cases form the basis for the first of the Kingston features, a lively tangle of several people who get their offspring tangled up with resulting trouble. The show is fast and funny and this Hal Roach production offers Patsy Kelly, Lyda Roberti and Robert Armstrong in the featured roles. "Talk of the Devil" is an unusual play from England as it pictures the harm one man does in an effort to get what he wants from life. Exciting and melodramatic, the play stars Basil Sidney along with Ricardo Cortez and Sally Eilers.

Orpheum: "Men Are Not Gods" and "Don't Tell the Wife." Made in England with a British cast except for Miriam Hopkins, this Alexander Korda production is a real thriller as it describes the plight of a woman who gets her romantic values badly mixed. "Don't Tell the Wife" is the other full length offering with Lynn Overman, Una Merkel and Guy Kibbee. It's nicely done comedy that follows the familiar pattern of do-males doubling on the part of both husband and wife.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Call It A Day." Warner Brothers have constructed a fine picture at the Broadway, a family play that breathes reality through the spirited and capable work of Roland Young, Alice Brady and Ian Hunter. Directed by Archie Mayo, the cast also includes Olivia De Havilland, Frieda Inescort, Peggy Wood, Beryl Mercer and Bonita Granville.

Kingston: "Melody for Two" and "That I May Live." Double features continue on the Kingston screen, the first a melodic effort with the singing James Melton starred and supported by Patricia Ellis, the second a love story of average scope with Rochelle Hudson.

Orpheum: "Champagne Waltz." A combination of classical and modern music is to be heard at the downtown theatre with Gladys Swarthout supplying the Metropolitan atmosphere and Fred MacMurray swing it with a dance orchestra. Good musical entertainment.

Interlocutory Decree

Hazel L. Westbrook has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Thomas T. Westbrook, by Justice Foster. L. Roy Lounsbury appeared for plaintiff. The Westbrooks were married at Kerhonkson on July 7, 1929 and the acts upon which the decree is based were alleged to have been committed at the Yates Hotel in Syracuse on April 21, 1937.

America has 26 billion-dollar corporations and only two billion-dollar families, but will have more of the former and less of the latter hereafter.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Unworried by the fact that midnight is the deadline for major league trades, New York's twin pace setters, the Yankees and Giants were ready today for another invasion by their western rivals.

The mauling, but somewhat less-than-terrific Yankees tangled with Cleveland in the first of 13 games in the Bronx while the punch-less, puny, but winning Giants made Pittsburgh their first port of call on a 12-game swing through the west.

Only one possible deal was in sight and that lacked official confirmation. The Giants, needing punch particularly at Manager Bill Terry's old job, first base, were reported to be angling for Dolph Camilli of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The rumor, which officials didn't confirm, said Terry was offering Johnny McCarthy, his expensive young first baseman, and Catcher Harry Danning for Camilli and Bill Aldrich, another spare backstop.

Sam Leslie replaced McCarthy Sunday and Terry apparently was counting upon him to fill the job and possibly provide some of the power that has been missing during Mel Ott's unparalleled batting slump and Hank Leiber's convalescence from the Bob Feller beating. McCarthy, hampered by a leg injury, was hardly hitting the size of his hat.

The Yankees, like the Giants only a half game in front of Chicago, also looked to improved performances from the men who have kept them on top so far. Manager Joe McCarthy is quite content with the power his world champions have been providing—49 home runs in 44 games, among other things—but he'll be relieved when Monte Pearson and Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler report for regular mound duty.

Chicago's Cubs and White Sox, both going great guns, also seemed willing to stand pat on their present lineups.

With two pitchers missing and Johnny Bronck's ineffectiveness serving partly to counter-balance the slugging power of Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig, the Yankees had reason to be thankful for Charley Ruffing. The big red-headed right-hander, despite a late start, has turned in five victories to rank second only to Pearson among the Yank flingers. During the road trip that ended Sunday with 6 won, 7 lost and tie, he pitched three of five complete games recorded by the team's elbowing corps.

A home stand may boost the Yanks' lead for they have won 12 of 16 stadium starts compared to 16 out of 30 on the road. The Giants, on the other hand, have done their best work away from home. At the Polo Grounds their record is 19 won and 24 lost while the slate out of town is 12 won out of 17.

After a shaky first inning in which the Board scored three unearned runs, Williams settled down to allow the city representatives one run and two hits. The victory places the Coolerators in a tie for first place with the Engineers. Coke Costello was on the mound for the B. P. W. The Icehouse Gang scored two runs due to errors in the first and went ahead 4-3 with two more tallies in the fourth. After the Board tied the score in the fifth the Icehouse came back in their half to score two runs on Don Kelly's long triple.

Breaking Right

Don Budge & Co. sails for Europe in high hopes of regaining the Davis Cup. Flushed with their convincing victory over a weakened Australian team, the lads feel that this is their year.

Well it may be. Budge showed enough to convince that he has a chance against any amateur tennis player in the world. Even more cheering than Budge's excellent condition was the improved form displayed by Gene Mako, his doubles partner.

Budge and Mako, U.S. doubles champions, aren't likely to face stronger competition anywhere than they defeated at Forest Hills.

But there are other considerations. For one thing, playing away from home, Other American squads, with chances equally rosy, failed to win the international trophy. Breaks often decide the winner in tennis just as they do in any sports contest.

The 1932 American team headed by Ellsworth

Vines and Wilmer Allison appeared to have a fine chance of lifting the cup from the failing French. But just when the U.S. netters seemed about to realize their ambition fate intervened.

Allison was gradually wearing down the then 34-year-old Jean Borotra, who had been drafted against his wishes, in the crucial match.

The tenth game of the deciding set was one of the most dramatic ever witnessed. Borotra was winning rapidly. With Allison leading, 5-4, and pressing his advantage, Borotra's shoe suddenly split wide open. Frantically, the French veteran waved for a new shoe.

By the time the change was made Borotra had regained his wind and Allison had cooled off, with the result that when play was resumed the Frenchman staged a magnificent rally. With the aid of a very questionable linenman's decision, Borotra sealed the Tricolor's triumph by defeating Allison.

Million Gate for Braddock-Louis

Chicago, June 15 (AP)—Mike Jacobs, the man behind the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis heavyweight title fight a week from tonight at Comiskey Park, said today the bout "is a cinch" to draw a gate of $1,000,000.

"The sale of tickets to Chicago people has been slow," said the New York promoter, who is acting as advisor to Promoter Joe Foley, "and that's one reason why I'm sure the ticket sale will go to at least a million.

The fight principals, meanwhile, continued to aim for peak physical condition at their respective camps.

Louis was scheduled to box eight rounds at Kenosha, Wis., and Thursday planned to go 15, the title fight distance. His showing last Sunday against five sparnates was considered particularly impressive and the Bomber said he believed he would be in top shape when he enters the ring.

Braddock golfed yesterday. He will ease off after a ring drill today, being within three pounds of the 195 he said he would weigh the night of the battle.

Britishers Favor Budge for Net Cup

London, June 15 (AP)—After one good look at the new and improved Donald Budge, England's tennis experts were about ready today to concede that the Davis Cup is going on a long trip across the water.

A half dozen of them, polled by The Associated Press after the red-head had played his opening singles match at Queens Club yesterday, were almost unanimous about it. One had an idea that Germany might win the big cup but the other five voted a straight American ticket. Not one picked England largely because the defenders' best doubles team, George F. Hughes and Charles R. Tucker, has been a big disappointment all spring.

It was Budge's third appearance in England but it might have been his first from the way all the experts in the South of England crowded around to watch him torpedo young Jerry Duxhall.

Without exception the experts saw a vast improvement in Budge's play. "He's got a harder, faster service, his forehand looks a little crisper, and that backhand down the line is even more beautiful than it was—if possible," said one of England's leading tennis writers.

"I can't see either Auetin or Von Cramm beating him," he continued. "I don't think any doubles team on this side will be able to hold him and Mako. Grant should be good for a win too, against our second man—whoever he might turn out to be."

Former President Hoover is planning a winning industry exhibit for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

At the last Commonwealth census there were 17,658 Italian nationals in Australia, according to official figures issued by the statistician.

Crossbow, Medieval Arm, Death to Man or Beast

Used not only as a military weapon but also as the sporting arm of the hunter of the Middle Ages, the powerful crossbow, or arbalest, has a romantic and interesting history, notes Bob Becker in the Chicago Tribune. It is believed to have been introduced into England as a military and sporting arm by the Norman invaders in 1066, and it is known to have been popular in continental European countries even before that time, having been used for hunting stags, wild boars, hares, and other game. As a soldier's weapon it was branded as "hateful to God and unfit for Christians."

But sportsmen of the Middle Ages became so fond of their crossbows that they continued to use them for more than 50 years after the introduction of the handgun. Crossbows date back to the Fourth century. Manuscripts of the Tenth century mention the weapon.

The main parts of the crossbow are the arbrier (or stock) and the short, powerful bow mounted on the stock at right angles. At the bow end is a "stirrup" or loop of iron. The bowstring, when at tension, is released by a trigger. For its discharge the weapon is held up to the shoulder.

The force of the released bowstring propels a short arrow known as a bolt (or quarrel), a stone, clay ball, or other missile with terrific force. The earliest types of crossbows were crude affairs with wooden bows. These were liable to warp or break. So crossbowmen devised the composite bow made by combining horn and whalebone, or yew and animal tendons. It is thought that the first composite bows, those made by the Saracens, were brought to Europe during the Twelfth century.

NYA Allotments are Being Cut; Ulster County's Cut is 60

In the nationwide reduction of National Youth Administration allotments to states, New York state, exclusive of New York city, must cut its quota of youth employed on work projects from 9,000 to 8,500 by July 15. This reduction has been forced upon the NYA by the necessary use of extra funds to meet the needs of young people in regions affected by drouth and flood.

Clark Leachtenauer, Ulster county supervisor of NYA, said today that Ulster county's quota is cut from 160 to 100, while the supervisory force is reduced from 3 to 2, but that it was not expected that the cut of 60 in the county's allotment would make it necessary to lay off any youths in order to meet the new quota.

Mr. Leachtenauer said that the advisory committee had been working with him for several months in setting up a project of apprentice placement in Ulster county which will take care of the situation here.

In keeping with the new quota, new district quotas based upon local unemployment figures, relief loads, and the waiting list of needy young people out of school between the ages of 18 and 25, who are eligible for NYA employment.

The chief cut, it is estimated by the state office at Albany, can be effected by laying off youths employed on NYA projects more than a year.

More than 6,000 campgrounds will be ready for this season's vacation visitors to the 160 national forests, the United States Forest Service says.

Ten Missing from Fishing Boat, Awash On Delaware Shoal

Bowers Beach, Del., June 15 (AP)—
Captain Floyd David and nine members of a fishing party, possibly from Pennsylvania, were missing today from the 35-foot cabin boat Teal, found partly submerged on a shoal six miles off shore in Delaware Bay.

One body was recovered. State police said the identity had not been established and it was not known if the victim was a member of the party that left Bowers Beach yesterday morning.

The Teal was towed in to Bowers
Beach today.

Police sought to trace the identity of the fishermen through license plates of automobiles which remained parked last night at the beach. Several had Pennsylvania licenses.

The Sunken boat, the Teal, was found by Captain Nelson Roland. He said he saw the top of the cabin above the water, but could see no sign of Captain David nor his party.
Names of those who accompanied
David were not known in Bowers
Beach.

Captain Roland said he was forced back to port by a storm. Coast Guard stations at Cape May and Lewes,
Del., were notified.

The body, wearing a life preserver, was found in the bay near 15-foot light, eight miles from Bowers
Beach.

All the life preservers were missing from the Teal.

This increased fears that the fisherman had been unable to attract the attention of other boats before the Teal settled onto the shoal. It was believed the engine of Teal failed and left the boat at the mercy of a storm.
